

OSHA Public Sector Safety & Health Fundamentals Certificate Program

Managing and implementing a safety and health program in a public sector environment requires knowledge of hazards, regulations, and appropriate methods of hazard prevention and control. Although this certificate program was primarily designed for public sector employees, it is available for anyone interested in furthering their practical knowledge while earning a national safety and health credential. The certificate is awarded by OSHA after successfully completing a minimum of seven courses, comprised of three required courses, and four electives. Participants have the opportunity to earn certificates for Construction and General Industry training.
